

Dean Announces Changes In Cut System Penalties

Marks Tightening of School-wide System

By PAUL TERRY

Two principal changes in the present cut system were made at a faculty meeting last Monday, it was announced by Dean Joseph C. Clarke today. The changes will become effective as of February, 1955.

Unexcused absences on the two days immediately preceding and the two days immediately following all official college recesses will be counted as double cuts. Dean Clarke pointed out that the faculty passed this rule primarily to eliminate the mass exodus which usually takes place before vacations. The move will also provide a fairer situation for those students who have Saturday classes, and for those students who have classes on the day immediately preceding vacations. Previously, men who had no classes on the day just before a recess were able to leave early without getting the double cuts. With this new rule, however, everyone will be liable for the increased cuts.

The second change involved the penalty for over-cutting a course. According to the old system, a student was required to make up one semester course for each three over-cuts. Since this method so often resulted in holding back a degree from a senior who failed to make up the credit, the faculty voted the following rule into the cut system:

"If a student exceeds his allotment of unexcused absences from any course, he will be placed on 'cut probation' for the next semester, and will be placed in either cut-classification No. 5 or No. 6. (Class No. 5 includes those men on academic probation; they have no cuts. Class No. 6 includes those men on 'cut probation,' but not on academic probation; these have two cuts per course.) A student over-cutting a second successive semester, or a third semester, whether successive or not, will be suspended from college for one semester."

This second rule means that students will not have to make up courses which they have over-cut, but any student over-cutting three courses at different times, or over-cutting courses two successive semesters will be suspended.

Statler Hotel Site Of '54 Soph Hop

The first College dance to be held at the new Statler Hotel will be the Sophomore Hop on Friday, November 12, from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m., it has been announced by Ron Foster, sophomore class president and chairman of the dance committee. The dance, which will be formal, will be held in the spacious ballroom. The dance floor itself will accommodate about 850 people, and adjoining rooms will be provided for relaxing. Paul Landerman's orchestra will provide the music.

Drinks will be available at the hotel, but will be quite expensive; it is expected that most students will furnish their own liquor. Set-ups will be sold at the hotel.

The dance committee, which is made up of three sophomore class officers, and a sophomore representative from each of the fraternity houses and the Brownell Club, has decided that the price of tickets will be five dollars, and that there will be no flowers. Between 30 and 50 tickets will be made available to the freshman class.

Goal Set for Blood Drive Is 400 Pints

The annual Blood Drive sponsored by the college for the American Red Cross will be held here on October 21st and 22nd, it has been announced by Lance Vars, President of the Senate.

The goal for the drive has been set at 400 pints, and the blood will be turned over to the Red Cross, which will allocate it to various hospitals throughout the New England area.

Commenting on last year's drive, Dean Joseph C. Clarke stated: "We fell behind in our quota last year, and I certainly hope that the students will be out in force to make up the difference this time."

George Lunt has been placed in charge of the drive, and representatives will contact the students at the fraternity houses and in the freshman dormitories to sign up for appointments.

Parents' Day Events Include Tea, Lunch

A large number of acceptances have been received by school authorities for the first annual Parents Day on October 30.

The day's activities will begin at 11:00 with an organizational meeting for the "Trinity College Parents Association" in the Chemistry Auditorium.

The yet unratified Constitution states that "the purposes . . . shall be to encourage and develop interest of its members in the College, and to engage in such other activities as may be in the furtherance of the welfare of the College and its objectives." Election of a board of directors is also on the agenda.

Brief talks are to be given by Joseph C. Clarke, Dean of Students, William R. Peele, Secretary of Admissions and freshman adviser, and Albert E. Holland, Vice-President in charge of Development.

At 12:15, a buffet luncheon for parents and sons with Faculty advisers will be given at the Memorial Field House. College President Albert C. Jacobs will be the featured speaker.

The Trinity-Coast Guard football game will be witnessed by the visitors and their sons in a special section, beginning at 1:30.

Eisenhower to Speak, Receive Law Degree

Senate Deals With Alcohol, Honor System

BY PAUL H. HINES

Dean Clarke, in a talk to the Senate last Monday night, made several important announcements.

The Dean said that there have been two drunken driver arrests by Hartford police of Trinity students in the last six months, but through the legal ability of Professor Egan these men were given lenient treatment. This is a thing of the past, for the Judges have adopted a "throw the book at Trinity men policy." Dean Clarke hopes this will be taken seriously because he doesn't want Trinity men killed in accidents as Dartmouth and Middlebury students were last weekend.

He further said that no parking is permitted on the east side of Summit street between Vernon street and Elton. The police intend to enforce this, and starting on Thursday all cars found in this area will be towed away at the owner's expense.

Dean Clarke reported that the Committee on Administration discussed the petition submitted by the Senate last Spring which would allow the consumption of beer and wine on campus. He said they have reached no conclusion, that they want more information in order to study the proposal more closely. For this purpose the Senate, Medusa, and I.F.C. will appoint sub-committees of three members each who will meet with a sub-committee from the Committee on Administration. These sub-committees will discuss such issues as the Trinity policy on the state drinking age law, and enforcement of the no hard liquor rule on campus by student government.

Senator John Dluhy proposed that the honor system be adopted at Trinity College, suggesting that it be voted on in the Spring by all students. Dluhy set 75% as a possible standard necessary for its approval. All discussion was tabled until next week, to give the Senators time to examine the

Young Republicans Hear Miss Conn. '54

By LAIRD MORTIMER

Miss Connecticut was the feature attraction of the Young Republican meeting on Monday night in Cook Lounge where over one hundred students from St. Joseph's College, Hartford Hospital, University of Connecticut, Hartford College, and Trinity turned out in support of the Citizens-for-Lodge Committee. The Committee is an independent group composed of an equal number of Democrats and Republicans who mutually feel that John Lodge has been the best governor this state has ever had and would like to have him re-elected. The meeting served mainly to recruit workers for the committee in such capacities as door to door politicking, sound truck speakers and office work.

Eastburn Presides

Bill Eastburn, president of the Young Republicans, presided at the co-ed meeting and introduced speakers on behalf of the Citizens Committee.

Mr. Henry Mooberry, publicity agent for the Committee, and Bob Steiner, organizer of the Young Republicans at the University of Connecticut, both spoke on behalf of the need for workers for a worthy cause.

Miss Ethel Youngblood, a member of the faculty at the University of Connecticut, veteran of five years' Washington, D. C., service and organizer of the late Senator Robert Taft's home front senatorial campaign, brought up the fact that this was the best chance for students to learn politics by some practical experience through campaign work. She declared that Governor Lodge has not made any rash promises, has been honest and has kept the Connecticut government running efficiently.

Students Urged to Help

Dr. Eugene Davis, faculty adviser for the Young Republicans urged those who cannot vote to campaign for the Republican party through such channels as family, friends and neighbors. He also discussed the fallacy in not voting a straight ticket.

Miss Connecticut of 1954, University of Connecticut sophomore Dorothy Hopkins, was the featured rallyer. As

For the first time since Theodore Roosevelt visited the College in 1918 will Trinity play host to a President of the United States when Dwight D. Eisenhower arrives on campus next Wednesday morning. The President is scheduled to reach Hartford about 10:15.

He will be escorted to the College by Dean Hughes and will be welcomed by President Jacobs, student and faculty representatives, and trustees at the Jacobs' home on Vernon Street. A full-dress academic procession including some 90 faculty members, 25 government officials, 12 clergy, the College senate and trustees will precede Ike from the reception to the main quad where the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws will be conferred upon him.

To Address Students

In a 30 to 40-minute speech following the awarding of the degree, President Eisenhower will direct his remarks primarily to the students of the college. The non-political address, scheduled for 11 a.m., will be open to the public, providing inclement weather does not force the program into the Field House.

Students have been assigned the best seats for the talk, the Convocation Committee announced Monday. All undergraduates are expected to be present at the ceremony, and will be given seats in the front center of the crowd. Classes scheduled for 10:30 and 11:30 a.m. will be cancelled.

Students must be seated by 10:30 a.m. Admission to seats will be by athletic cards, whether the ceremony is held on the main campus in front of Northam Towers or in the Field House in case of rain. In the

Soph Dining Club Elects Ten Men From Class of '57

Ten men from the Class of '57 have been elected to the Sophomore Dining Club, it has been announced by Hank Williams, President of that organization.

Those elected were: Richard Hall, Paul Kennedy, Ronald Foster, Bill Pierce, Samuel Ninness, James Miller, Kevin Logan, William Stout, Rick Elder, and Allan Payne.

The Sophomore Dining Club is composed of upperclassmen selected during their second year to act as an official welcoming group for the College. Visiting athletic teams, New students, freshmen, prospective students, and various groups and organizations visiting the school are met and conducted around the campus by members of the Soph Dining Club. The organization was founded in 1897, and it is an honorary society.

The Review announces the appointment of Bruce MacDonald as Art Editor of the magazine, and that the deadline for literary material for the fall issue is this Friday. Freshman material will be welcomed. All contributions should be sent through the college mail, Box 198.

Cross Over the Bridge Lecture to Feature Wisconsin U. Mathematician

The first lecture of the College Lecture Series for the current academic year will be delivered by Professor R. H. Bing, of the University of Wisconsin, it was announced today by Professor Samuel F. Morse, chairman of the Lecture Committee. The lecture will be given in the Chemistry Auditorium at 8:15 tomorrow night and will be on the subject of "Topology for the Layman."

Well-known Lecturer

The College is one of the first to be visited by Professor Bing, who is visiting here in connection with the Visiting Lectureship Program of the National Science Foundation. A well-known mathematician, Professor Bing also has had wide experience in delivering lectures of a popular nature dealing with the phases of topology of interest to those not acquainted with the subject.

Subject Not Formidable

While the subject of topology may sound like a formidable one to the non-mathematician, many of its most important problems have arisen in connection with matters of everyday interest and concern. Belonging to the mathematical province of geometry, topology has provided startling and

THE ALCOHOL QUESTION

As pointed out in a Tripod editorial last spring, there are several sound reasons for allowing the consumption of beer in the college dormitories. As evidenced by behavior in the dormitories last spring and this fall, there are reasons for the decision at a recent faculty meeting to delay a vote on the matter.

One thing, in our minds, is certain; the flagrant disrespect for college regulations must be eliminated. This can be accomplished in two obvious ways: Make a serious attempt to enforce the rule through the Senate, Medusa, and if necessary, the administration; or legalize the consumption of beer.

Last year we advocated the passage of the proposal because we felt that the student body was able to accept the increased responsibility. Now we, like the administration, are not so sure. The reason for our uncertainty may be found chiefly in the action of the freshman classes of '57 and '58. Last year they did considerable damage to the New Dorm Lounge and this year they seem to have developed a fatal attraction for the fire alarm system. Would the unrestricted use of beer merely add to these misdemeanors? It seems quite likely that it would. As much of the disturbance seems to come from the freshman class, we advocated last year that only upperclassmen be awarded the privilege, but this may create more of a problem than now exists. The freshmen are now limited in the use of automobiles and in attending the principal college social affairs, and this added disadvantage may not be desirable.

Another fact that the Faculty Committee on Administration must weigh before rendering a decision is that if they allow minors to drink on campus it will certainly encourage them to obtain the beverages illegally in the city. Thus even though perfectly in the right while consuming beer on the campus, they are committing an offense when they purchase it if they are under 21.

We believe that the faculty has acted wisely in setting up the various sub-committees to make a more thorough study of this intricate problem rather than make a hasty and perhaps unfortunate decision. When the efforts of these committees have brought to light all the relevant factors involved in the case, an intelligent solution can be found.

NO LANGUAGES ?

We were particularly disappointed in the student response to our editorial entitled "Language Convocations" last week. We hope that this apparent lack of interest does not indicate undergraduate apathy toward the subject. We are convinced of the desirability of such a program and somehow feel that somewhere there must be a few interested individuals on campus.

In several conversations with the faculty members of the language departments we can report wholehearted enthusiasm and willingness to help. But as one member said, "Such a plan has long been kicked around by the faculty, but we have always felt that to be effective it must come from the students." The Tripod has done its part in voicing a certain amount of student opinion in favor of practical language usage, but as yet we have heard nothing definite outside of these columns.

We are determined enough not to let this subject drop and so again we will send out a plea for suggestions for effective working out of the plan.

THE FETID AIR

By OMAR ECKFORD

Through the past few weeks we have heard considerable criticism of the Fetid Air as it has been written by Omar. It has not been good. In fact, it has been so severe that we were no little upset and angry. But then we thought of the opportunity of writing again this week and took heart again. But we were mighty upset, we'll tell you.

This column has been known in past years for its constant commentary on collegiate trends, commonly known as shoe trends. We hoped we would not have to deal with this subject this year, but a certain shoe practice has come to our attention which we feel deserves some analysis and explanation. For some time one has been able to act shoe (the word here used as an adverb), dress shoe, drink shoe and just plain look shoe. But it hasn't been until recently that everyone has had the opportunity to talk shoe.

The first requirement for talking shoe is a loose or slack jaw. One that just hangs there and doesn't really do anything. This can be accomplished in fairly short order by not talking to peasants. Next an appropriate vocabulary must be developed. Certain expressions such as "fabulous," "great," "terrific," "sort of," "guy," "rather" and "tremendous" must be memorized. Thus far it is pretty easy, but the final touches are a bit more difficult. The drooping jaw must be effectively combined with a slight nasal tone. And furthermore all vowels have to have an "O" sound. Since most of you don't understand phonetic symbols, we will attempt to spell out the sounds as best we can. The net result of shoe talk sounds like this:

"Hoi, Goi. Groit to see you."
"Thoinks, Goi. Pretty Tohrific porty lost woik."
"Rother groit."
"Loik a doiquiry?"
"O, fobulous!"
"Hop into the Jahg."
"Soi, this is sort of groit!"
"What do you think of Kofka?"
"Rother tremendous."

The short sentence seems important, but apparently is not necessary. With a little practice you should be able to effect a rother groit shoe accent.

At long last we have found the reason for the unpopularity and low pay of the teaching profession. Another of our friends has told us of an incident which took place many years ago during her secondary schooling.

It seems that this was back in the days when English classes were expected to read and write. There were no such things as "free topics" in those days, and whole classes were assigned "themes" such as "My Summer on a Farm," or "The Meaning of Independence Day." Conformity was requisite, but probably this was easier for the teacher.

Our friend's topic in her English class was "A Cold Spring." It was during early April, and there really was little question as to what was expected. But our friend seems to have been in a deliberately obstinate mood and set out to describe in great detail her experience of falling into a certain cold spring in the country where she spent her summers. The teacher was no little taken aback at this display of ostentatious individualism and gave a flunking grade. "It was a pretty good composition, too," says our friend. "I'll never forgive that teacher."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of The Tripod:

On Monday night I proposed to the student senate that the Honor System become an integral part of the college life at Trinity College. In order that you understand more fully my reasons for inaugurating this system, I offer you this explanation.

For the past three years, I have had the privilege of visiting various colleges in the east which employ the Honor System and in all of them I ascertained a definitude of purpose and a coherence of spirit permeating the student body. Those schools were Sweet Briar College, the University of Virginia, Princeton University, where my brother is a freshman, New Jersey College for Women, Williams College, and Randolph-Macon College. In most colleges that do not employ the Honor Code, I feel that this attitude prevails—if you can get away with a breach of honor, then you are innocent. However, in those colleges that I visited using the Honor Code, this attitude was not present.

Is it consistent with human reason that some of our students, namely our R.O.T.C. students, should be expected to remain loyal to two different philosophies? As members of the Corps, they are expected to abide by the philosophy that honor at all times is essential. Yet in all other college functions, many students feel that it is permissible to cheat as long as you do not get caught. I ask you, is that the attitude that you will live by for the rest of your lives? If not, then why tolerate it in Trinity College?

The student, under the Honor System, would be free to take his examinations without the strict supervision of proctors. This is a prodigious convenience to the student. But if you argue that proctoring is not very strict now, then why have the professors remained in the exam halls for three hours when they might be out correcting papers somewhere else? The school then benefits from the Honor Code in respect to exam proctoring.

However, the most important consideration is that the student becomes inculcated with those ideals that will better qualify him to take his place in our society and make him a better citizen. Let me quote from The University and the Honor System by Stringfellow Barr, Professor of Political Science, University of Virginia: "... I propose to assume also that you will not lie to yourself, consciously or unconsciously, during the difficult task of learning and growing. I propose to assume that you will not cheat me out of my chance to practice my profession by childish intellectual behavior and dawdling. I propose to assume that you will not steal my time by trying to make good grades rather than to understand. I assume you will disdain the lie on the lips and I propose to assume that you will likewise avoid and despise the lie on the soul."

This is the year that Trinity is surging ahead, intellectually and athletically, and the Honor System is one of the most important advances that each of you students can contribute to your life at Trinity, to the future Trin men, and to the college community.

Thank you,

JOHN DLUHY,
Senator, Pi Kappa Alpha.

Annual Report of Librarian Indicates Large Circulation

"The academic year 1953 and 1954 was an extremely active one," said Librarian Donald B. Engley in his annual report to the trustees. Increasing numbers of students and faculty alike have used the building.

Student circulation has risen twenty-nine percent and that of the faculty has risen fifty percent. Inter-library lending rose in proportion to the rise in circulation.

The catalogue department did a mammoth job in replacing all the worn-out guide cards in the files with a completely new set. The department has also been faced with the job of integrating the newly commencing Watkinson Library with other library records.

An inventory begun early in 1951 in the old library quarters was finally completed early in 1953. A start has been made to remove all of the ephemeral or worn-out material from the shelves.

The college library collection now amounts to 230,000 volumes, and with accommodations for only 250,000, the need for more shelf space is being felt constantly. A recommended fourteen to fifteen thousand dollars could remedy the lack of shelves.

Fifteen hundred and fifty volumes were donated to the library this year by faculty, alumni and friends of the College.

Exhibitions from the Far East, Christian Art from the Wadsworth Atheneum and the Columbia University Bicentennial highlighted activities in the library conference room.

The Hartford Foundation for Public Giving granted $7,500 to cover the cost of the first year's work on the Watkinson Library. The Old Dominion Foundation agreed to supply funds also.

The Trinity College Library Gazette, Librarian Engley, Editor, was greeted with approbation on all sides. Material assistance to the well-being of the library is sought as an end-result of this small publication.

Alarms, Noise, Worry Interdorm Council

The Freshman Interdormitory Council at its latest meeting discussed at great length the seriousness of the recent fire alarm incident in the frosh dorms. President George Baxter stressed the graveness of the offense, and asked the members of the council to speak to the residents on each of their floors about the false alarm.

The penalty for turning in a false alarm is a five-hundred-dollar fine or one year imprisonment. In the case of a real fire the Council fears that the students would not heed the alarm, thinking it to be another joke. Each false alarm that is turned in costs the city of Hartford one hundred dollars.

Several members of the Council informed the committee that a few of the halls were too noisy during week nights, and expressed the hope that the few offenders would be quieter during study hours.

A list of the Council members from each floor have been posted in each of the freshman dorms.

The library doors were open seven days a week for a total of an eighty-four-hour week, and a ten-week summer session.

There was widespread employment of freshmen and sophomores in the library. The only disappointment is that the library cannot pay more than sixty-five cents an hour, thus losing many of the well-trained juniors and seniors. The library was fortunate to have an excellent crew of undergrads interested in their work.

Mr. Engley looks back on five years with the Trinity Library and summarizes by saying that the college falls down on the total amount spent on the library per student, but is encouraged by the rising statistics of use and of interest in the library by the people of Hartford as well as the college community.

ROTC to Play Major Part in Ike Event

With the expected arrival of President Eisenhower on the twentieth of October, the College authorities and the Senate have requested that the AFROTC Detachment carry out a major proportion of the welcoming exercises.

The President will be extended full military courtesy by the Cadets. It has been tentatively planned that an honor guard of 21 men, two honor squadrons of 40 men, the band, and also a color guard will comprise the group that will go through their paces for the Chief Executive. The scene of action will take place in front of President Jacobs home.

The Senior Officers, not included in the welcoming capacity, will act as escorts for the wives of the distinguished guests. Other cadets will fill the capacities of ushering and parking attendants. The College has arranged for a reserve section of seats for the Cadets.

faces. For instance: Can one walk across each of the seven bridges (see cut) without recrossing any one of them? This is one of the particular problems which gave rise to topology as a branch of science. The results of such studies have led to general mathematical results of great importance. Topology itself, and the matters to be dealt with in Professor Bing's lecture, well illustrate the manner in which mathematical theories are developed.

John Morrison Elected To High CISL Position

John Morrison

At the first meeting of the Connecticut Intercollegiate Student Legislature Executive Council last Sunday John Morrison of Theta Xi was elected to the chairmanship of the group. This post is one of considerable importance as the Executive Council is the governing group of the CISL.

Also elected at the meeting, which was held at Hillyer College in Hartford, were Rita Burns of St. Joseph's, Vice-Chairman; Vivian Burgess of Danbury, Secretary; and Barry Passett of Wesleyan, Treasurer.

Morrison was previously a senator in the CISL, and is a member of the Political Science Club and the Foreign Policy Association.

Bantam Booters Meet Tufts; Injured Stars Ready to Play

Percy, Lapham, Styles And Royston Return

With one win already under their belts, Coach Roy Dath's soccer charges are going through their final drills prior to their home opener with Tufts here this Saturday. The team is now at top strength with the return of Willie Lapham, Chris Percy, Phil Styles, and Dick Royston to the lineup.

Attack Line Set

The attack line will start with Lucky Callen and George Lunt at the wings and Ken Swanson at center forward. Doug Raynard will be at one inside and Lapham will probably be at the other. Royston is not in condition as of yet for game competition but is rapidly coming around.

Percy To Help

The halfback line is in top form with Art O'Connell, Captain Wade Close, and Ron Kozuch set to start against the pesky Jumbo booters. Percy's return will greatly boost the fullback line with Leif Carlson and Barry Haff also eager for action.

Phil Styles has returned from the injured list and may well start this Saturday, but if he is not yet ready Rick Elder is all set to go.

Yale Follows Jumbos

The reports on Tufts have been rather vague so far, but the feeling is that the Jumbos will be a rough opponent for the unbeaten Bantams. In the game after Tufts, the Blue and Gold booters traverse to New Haven where they will meet the powerful Elis on the 20th.

NBC "Game of the Week" Broadcast by Mel Allen

America's ace sportscaster, Mel Allen was signed to do the play-by-play as Crosley's new series "Game of the Week" got underway September 18 on NBC-radio and spot stations.

For a twelve-week period Crosley will select the game each week that promises the best in the field of inter-collegiate football, and Allen will fly to the field to bring a rapid-fire account to the radio-listening audience.

Mel Allen, the Alabama boy who first broke into the big-time New York Sports scene in 1937, has collected top honors in every field of sports. From dog shows to polo, from title fights to tennis, as well as in football and baseball, Mel's energy and versatility have proved unfailing. Often called the "Voice of the Yankees," Mel last January covered the Rose Bowl Game from Pasadena for NBC-TV. Last year he handled the color of the Kentucky Derby, and for the 13th time announced the All-Star play-by-play in Cincinnati. For the 11th time Mel's reporting brought the World Series to listening America, and these assignments won for Mel the coveted Radio-Television Daily Award for "The Best Sports-caster." Shortly thereafter he received the Fame Magazine Award.

system. Following are some of the main points of the honor system as read by John Dluhy at the Senate meeting:

A. Suggestions for the code:

1. The System will cover all examination periods.
2. It will include all written work: themes, laboratory reports, and other written work.
3. The fundamental concepts of Honor: lying, stealing, and cheating (already covered above).
4. All college regulations already included in the student regulations.
5. The student will be bound to report all infractions of the System to the Honor Board, whether or not a student personally committed the infraction or saw another student commit the infraction. Failure on either count to report an offense will carry the same penalty.
6. The Honor Board will include the Medusa, since the Medusa has been the traditional disciplinary group in Trinity College. Their power will not be usurped by the System, but they will constitute an important function of the System. Their power, un-

Frosh Gridders in Last Tuneups for Wes Opener

This Friday sees the first game of the season for Coach Bill Gerhold's freshman gridders. The opening contest is scheduled at Wesleyan with the Cardinal yearlings as the opponents. Last week Wesleyan lost to Andover 7-6.

The starting positions are still in doubt as Coach Gerhold is looking his 35 man squad over very carefully before actually deciding upon his opening lineup.

Backfield Still Contested

The backfield is settling down to a battle between about seven men for the first line berths. Ed Speno seems to have a starting slot at one half-back and Dick Kone is battling Dan Lourie for the other slot. The quarterback duties seem to be closely contested between Jack Thompson of Deerfield and Mike Schacht. Both men have looked very sharp thus far. Joe Urdzela and Dick Noble are the two top men in the fullback race.

The line is pretty wide open with several outstanding men shining thus far. Roger LeClerc has just about wrapped up the center position and Bob Couture is sure to be the heavy duty man in the frosh forward wall. Dick Moore, Walt Steuernagel, Bill MacDermott, and Tom Bass are other strong candidates for starting assignments.

BY PHIL TRUITT

With three games already in the victory column, the Trinity football team can look ahead for the first time this season to a brief respite before tackling the real meat of the schedule. While St. Lawrence cannot be taken for granted, they do not seriously threaten the undefeated and untied slate of the Bantams. The threat will come in a compact and powerful trio of teams from Coast Guard, Amherst, and Wesleyan.

Thus far the spirited team has exhibited an ability to score in almost any manner and the offensive is much more varied than that of a year ago. However, the spirit and fight will have to continue if success is to be attained in the remainder of the schedule.

Coast Guard is undefeated in two games thus far and anyone who remembers the game of last year will realize that the Cadets mean nothing but trouble. Last week they eked out Wesleyan 6-0 for their second win and although they have not shown great offensive power, the Cadet defense will probably be as rugged as any we have faced thus far. The great condition in which the Coast Guard athletes are kept tells the story of their rugged and tough brand of ball. Any letdown on the part of the Bantams might well spell disaster.

Amherst, of course, is unbeaten also in three starts. Last week they had to fight back in the second half to nail Bowdoin 26-19. Comparative scores are always deceiving, but this one does show that the Lord Jeffs are not as powerful as their previous scores have indicated. They loom up as the main threat to an unbeaten year for our gridders, but it is an established fact that Trinity always plays at top form against Amherst so that this contest might well be one of the top games in Eastern football this year.

Wesleyan of course is an old story. As well as Trinity plays against Amherst they play in just the opposite form against the Cardinals. Wes has a 1-2 record thus far but when considering a Trinity-Wesleyan contest, all previous records and scores must be thrown out the window. Spirit is the main element here and if we keep up the brand of fire thus far shown, this may finally be the year.

College smokers from coast to coast prefer Luckies to any other brand. Luckies lead, and by a wide margin, according to the latest, biggest college survey. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better because Lucky Strike is the cigarette of fine tobacco . . . and "It's Toasted" to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. This explains the Droodle below, which is: Eskimo seminar enjoying Luckies in badly built classroom. Like all real cool people, Eskimos know Luckies taste better. So, get the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

Wesleyan to Have New Public Affairs Center for Classes

A new Public Affairs Center, the second phase of Wesleyan's 2.5 million dollar development program will house the government, economics, and history departments of the University, according to a late Intercollegiate Press bulletin. The new center will include 7 classrooms, 5 workshops, 17 offices, a reading room connected to the present periodical room of the library, a press archives, and three lounges.

The program which the new Public Affairs Center intends to initiate, when completed, will include, in addition to regular departmental courses, interdepartmental seminars, workshops in which students make investigations under faculty supervision, joint student-faculty research projects, field work in local communities and practical politics, interviews with public officials, politicians, businessmen, labor officials, and others involved in public affairs.

The idea for building the center originated several years ago in informal discussions among professors in the three departments. They decided that the departmental barriers were too high, and noted that government majors frequently did not have an adequate understanding of economic affairs, economics majors sometimes missed the connection between fiscal policy and politics, and historians sometimes could not relate the past with contemporary problems.

der the Honor System will, however, be more inclusive.

B. Reasons for suggesting the Honor System in Trinity College:

a. The R.O.T.C. already has the system and it is inconsistent that the Air Force students should serve under two systems in Trinity College.

b. The student is permitted more freedom to come and go while taking examinations without being closely proctored.

c. The most important consideration of the Honor System is this one: that the student graduated under such a system is better prepared to fulfill his place in our society by being subjected to and adhering to the tenets of our way of life, which is the principle of Honor.

"The Honor System is the finest and most cherished of all Princeton traditions. We all fully realize, however, that honor itself cannot be systematized. The mere privilege of writing an examination without proctoring is only one of the System's many advantages. Every man who is admitted to the University must realize that he is being admitted as a gentleman with a high sense of personal honor, and he will be expected to conduct himself at all times accordingly. It is in this spirit that he subscribes to and abides by the requirements of the Honor System and it is also by this spirit of personal integrity that he should be guided in his undergraduate life at Princeton. Every man who is entering Princeton must be willing to subscribe wholeheartedly to the principles upon which the Honor System is based."

WESLEY FOUNDATION

Dr. John Oliver Nelson, Director of Field Work at Yale Divinity School, will give the second in a series of addresses on the theme "What doth the Lord require of thee?" at the Wesley Foundation, Sunday evening, October 17. The fellowship supper will be served promptly at six o'clock in the dining room of South Park Methodist Church, 75 Main Street. Trinity students are cordially invited.

This is a direct reprint of the letter sent to all incoming freshmen at Princeton, and from which I took this paragraph to illustrate my last point.

Information for the Honor System was obtained by letter from the colleges listed below and to whom I am indebted for their consideration: Sweet Briar, University of Virginia, Princeton, New Jersey for Women, Williams College, Randolph-Macon College, and Hamilton College.

Each of these colleges sent me all the information they had on their Honor Systems.

latter case, students are asked to enter the Field House by the door at the northwest of the building.

Parking Space Critical

With several thousand alumni and friends expected to attend as well as the official presidential party and press, and with the general public invited if the ceremony is held outdoors, the campus parking situation will be critical, the Convocation Committee warned. Members of the College family are asked to note carefully the following parking regulations which will be in effect:

ALL PARKING for students, faculty, and college employees on Oct. 20 will be in the vacant field south of Elton Hall. There will be no parking on Summit St.

RESIDENT STUDENTS are asked to remove their cars from the parking lot behind Hallden Laboratory and from all other College parking lots between noon and 4 p.m. on the previous day, Tuesday, Oct. 19. Cars taken out that night must be parked in the lot behind Elton on return. ALL STUDENT CARS FOUND IN ANY REGULAR PARKING LOT OR

ON SUMMIT STREET WILL BE TOWED OUT AT THE OWNERS' EXPENSE EARLY ON THE MORNING OF THE 20th.

Stickers Provided

Car stickers for off-campus students, faculty and College employees to pass police lines on Summit St. for admission to the parking field south of Elton Hall may be obtained from the Property Manager's Office on or after this Friday.

In view of the expected congestion, all members of the College who can arrange to double up or pool their cars to reach the campus on Oct. 20 are requested to do so.

President Jacobs said Monday that the College is preparing for thousands of visitors if good weather permits a public outdoor ceremony. The academic procession on foot over a fifth of a mile route through the College grounds will give an unusual opportunity for a close-up view of the President. A quadrangle area bigger than four football fields provides space for thousands to hear President Eisenhower's address.

Dr. Jacobs said that "it is a great pleasure for the College to extend an open invitation, as a community service, for the public to join with us in honoring President Eisenhower and in being honored by his visit."

Concern For Education

"The President's non-political visit to Trinity during this busy season reflects his continuing concern with the role of independent liberal education in training future leaders for our society. I have always admired the President's clear view of basic ideas on which our nation is founded. That he should pause in administering the affairs of state and political life during a national campaign to remind us of the importance of our educational institutions is characteristic of his perception."

The pre-speech reception for President Eisenhower will include Students Lance Vars and Louis Magelaner as Presidents of the Senate and Medusa, respectively; Professors Sterling Smith and Morse Allen as members of the Faculty Committee on Appointments and Promotions, Professors Gustave Andrian, Harold Dorwart, and George Cooper as members of the Faculty Committee on Educational Policy, and Professor Lawrence Towle as secretary of the faculty.

The Convocation Committee planning the program includes Dean Hughes as Chairman with President Jacobs, John Dando, Norman Walker, Hugh Rogers, Robert Bishop, William Peelle, Chaplain O'Grady, and John Mason.
